I'm pretty sure I was at this site a long time ago. Elf-atochem was an FMC peroxide customer and I sort of remember going to the Crosby plant to inspect their hydrogen peroxide tank. FMC used to inspect all new tanks before we would deliver any peroxide. But that was a long time ago and I don't remember any details...

Hi Jeff,

Arkema appears to have acquired it around 2004 (their initial RMP was submitted in late 2004, to notify EPA of the ownership change). It was not a greenfield site – previously owned by Elf Atochem and ATOFINA, both of whom had previously submitted RMPs for the same location. It had been there for at least 20 years prior to Arkema acquiring it.

You are awesome, Kim. Thank you. This is very helpful.

Do you know from your RMP submittals how long Arkema has owned the site? Arkema is a relatively new player on the chemical scene, having formed in 2006 from Total and Elf-Atochem and others, I guess. Was this an Arkema greenfield site, or did they take it over?

BTW, who is your new data person now that Peter has retired?

Thanks
Jeff

Hi all,

Since we discussed this yesterday during the EO call, I wanted to pass along recent information about the Arkema facility and the recent explosion.

Thanks,
Kim

Non-OCA RMP for Arkema is attached. They have two RMP-regulated substances: sulfur dioxide (toxic) and 2-methylpropene (flammable). The organic peroxides they manufacture (which are what exploded) are not regulated under RMP, but I believe some of them (e.g., cumene hydroperoxide) are regulated under the OSHA PSM standard.

Thanks Tito,

We are available to assist. As I understand from reading about this facility yesterday, the facility owner/operator was aware of the possibility of an explosion, and had evacuated their employees and was monitoring it from a remote site. Also it is in a fairly remote area as I recall.

Let us know what you need. Also adding in Kathy.

Thanks,
Kim
